Walk lasted between 12:00 and 13:47

We only observed 12 species, which was 1 below the median and 6.2 below the prediction for the week. It was hot and I forgot my water bottle, but Wan-Ying made a trip to the Broad Café and got me one. She said she has been reading the past reports and noticed that Chris had done that in the past. Wan-Ying was worried I might keel over. So, thank you Wan-Ying and thanks again to Chris for her past generosity. I will remember to bring my own next time! As for the birds? What birds? But at least 12 is better than the 11 we got on week 32. It's in the middle of the summer and the birds are not very active in the middle of the day. At least we soundly beat the minimum of 7. We worried about doing that for a while until John and Viveca had a productive stroll East on Del Mar. Looking forward to cooler weather.
